
VILLA MONTEMAR

1949

Who is Oscar?

. . . . . you may ask;
Why, he's just a piece of wood.
Perhaps he is, but ask him—
He'd say this if he could:

What am I?—there's the question.
A mascot, which is true;
But more than that—I'm more than wood.
I'm a Forty-Niner, too.

I'm the spirit of their studies:
A symbol of each game.
The Seniors, win or lose,
I'm smiling all the same.

Villa Montemar '49

THE ACADEMY OF OUR LADY OF PEACE
SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA

A wine-red pin and ring, the Fatima medal, a rosary—recall to the Seniors their years at the Academy. . . . Oscar, also an emblem of the Forty-niners, changes his mood with the turning of the pages.

ear Lady of Fatima,

In the shadow of the Dove

This book is dedicate

To thee, to Him-to Love.

OUR LADY OF FATIMA . . . Jacklyn Hosenpud; Francisco . . . Mary Jane Hall;
Jacinta . . . Susan Bierig; Lucia . . . Rosemarie Hoyt.

Our Lady, from the glory of heaven, looks upon her children. They struggle in a world corroded with errors nurtured by those who scorn her precious Child hanging on a cross. As an understanding Mother, Mary regives at Fatima, a miraculous power: her rosary of love, beaded with the tears of her joys and sorrows, and bound with her Son's cross.

Alive to their need for God's Mother, Academy students, in the theme of Villa Montemar '49, enact her titles of praise with their pledge to be stalwart daughters in this Age of Mary. Gratefully, they reflect on their Faith and their homes, their education beside a Mother holding close her Infant-King with an olive branch for scepter—their own Lady of Peace.

Enthusiasm and hard work merited a most successful year for the Seniors under the leadership of Vice-President Marlyn Stewart (left), Secretary Susan Bierig, Treasurer Janet Cliff, and President Mary Jane Hall.

To the 1949 Graduates,
Our Lady of Peace Academy:

The thoroughly Christian education that distinguishes Our Lady of Peace curriculum shall ever be held a cherished privilege and a precious heritage. Equipped with those fundamentals that make progress secure, the graduates are destined to wield a salutary influence through many generations.

Because the Catholic Church, the mother of learning, has, from the start of her foundation by Jesus Christ, fostered and protected the arts and sciences, it rejoices the Church of God to note the stimulating leaven as a class of graduates emerges from the lovely portals of Our Lady's Academy.

What you have absorbed during these four scholastic years, in surroundings where sacrifice, innocence and love are happily blended, will stand by you forever.

We salute and bless the Class of 1949, praying that the good works you have so well begun may be crowned with eternal splendors.

Sincerely,
CHARLES F. BUDDY,
Bishop of San Diego

Nancy O'Toole

Our Nancy held the hearts of all
With kindness, smiles and love.
Her junior year she led the way
To God in heaven above.

Dear Diary

Dear Diary—it's fall again
And, as ever, School Began;
Farewell to beach, it's back to books;
Goodbye my gorgeous tan!

Dear Diary—I was brutal,
(Initiation Day)
My poor freshman polished shoes,
The easy, brushless way.

Dear Diary—ah, poetry—
The novel's at its peak;
I'm literary, can't you see?
Once again it is Book Week.

Dear Diary—it's Christmas;
With our play to Mary's Child
Prayers and carols through the night—
Our gift to an Infant mild.

Dear Diary—what a Ditch Day!
That snow was cold, I found,
When I first cried: I'm skiing!
I found me on the ground!

Dear Diary—Semester Tests—
I knew it all, I thought,
Until I saw that printed page,
And then I just forgot.

Dear Diary—the Senior Play—
At last the fateful night
To give Jane Eyre, with shaky knees
But eyes excitement-bright.

Dear Diary—Retreat is here;
With school work set apart.
Through love and prayer to Him
Again I give my heart.

Dear Diary—Recital Time—
My fingers seem to freeze;
Yet they can always find
Those ticklish little keys!

Dear Diary—I'm full of cokes,
Hotdogs, and basketball—
Field Day was fun—tomorrow, school?
(If I can move at all!)

Dear Diary—the night has come.
Our uniforms disappear;
Out come dreamy dresses, flowers,
And music—Prom Time's here!

Dear Diary—today I say:
Ah world, I hold your key.
With cap and gown, a smile, a tear,
Goodbye, Academy!—

ater Admírabílis,

The lily and the key

To heaven's gate and glory's heart;

We come to Him through thee.

Dear Helen,
Gee, I just don't know what to write except that you're swell and it's been fine hearing from you. May God bless and keep you as sweet and friendly as you are now always.
Love,
Marceline

P.S. Well, must leave you now. I have to get into trouble

Hours of study

With civics in mind, Lilias Burden (standing) supports Pat Carroll in her deep research in preparation for her role in the radio-forum, "Youth Talks It Over."

Informal discussions with Father Stanislaus Derwinski happen frequently on Wednesdays and Fridays, especially with the freshmen. While Father explains a doubtful topic to Maureen Canavan, those waiting in line are Leann Mahoney, Mary Lee Ghidotti, and Carolyn Brown.

reap years of leadership

Lola de Villafranca Gill, instructor in French, rewards her eager students with a brief respite by way of some "bon mots."

Where are the seniors during a study period? Everyone knows that the Red-ties master the keyboard preparing their almost-late assignments: Joan Baumgarten (left), Teresa Lynch, and Rosemarie Hoyt.

The reference section of the library is in constant use as reports come due in American history. Lonia Mae Berg is engaged with dictionary terms, and the other chroniclers include Barbara Buck (left), Mary Reilley, and Dorothy Daniel.

No, this is not a square circle. Marjorie Glynn describes her arcs, complete with tangents, to the admiration of Barbara Trotter, Norma Jones, and Barbara Graham.

Junior-Senior Prom

The La Jolla Beach and Tennis Club is fast becoming traditional for the prom. After introducing their escorts at the Academy, the girls are conducted to the Latin-American room for the enjoyable fulfillment of dainty, red-ribboned dance programs.

On the promenade, but still in touch with the orchestra, Margaret Neilson and orchids are both popular with Jimmy Myers.

The alumnae, ever loyal to their Academy, gather bi-annually for business meetings, with bridge teas in between. All, especially the seniors who will soon join "the graduated," congratulate them on their newly founded scholarship fund.

On the first of February, Academy daughters waltzed into old-time memories with their favorite beaus. Following the entertainment provided by girls from each of the classes, "Peggy O'Neill" and her contemporaries made up the tunes for unison singing. And despite San Diego's light shower on Father-Daughter Night, apple pie and coffee in St. Catherine's Hall kept spirits cheerful.

and socials set aside the books

Music, cokes, a smooth floor, and of course, Father Glynn's excellent direction, alll blend to form memorable evenings for the '49-'50 Club of St. Augustine's and the Academy.

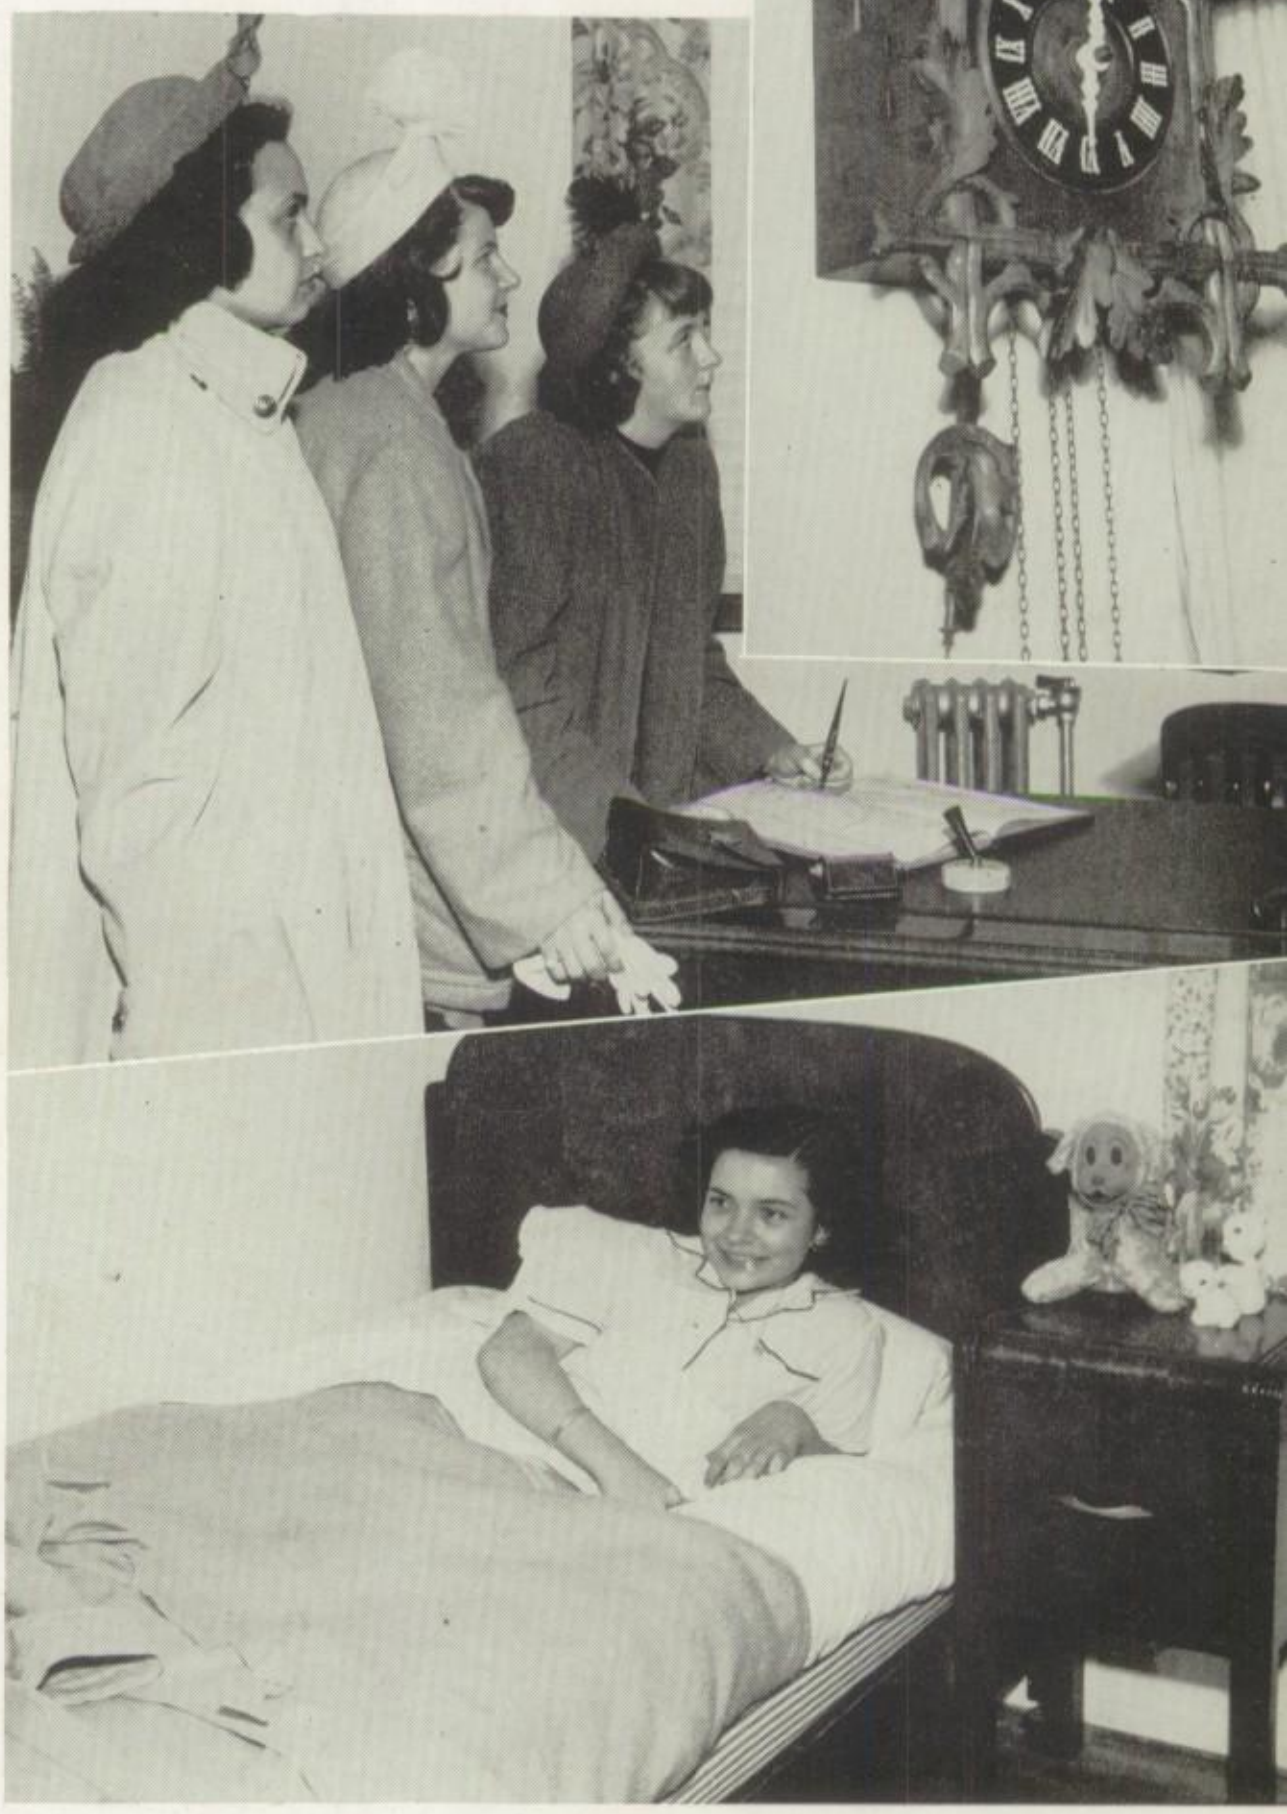
Time for signing in

This little fellow is heard but not seen by the resident students. The cuckoo clock from the second floor sings out the hour as the girls sign in for another week of school, sports, and all the fun and excitement involved in boarding.



No need to say, after such days, bedtime is quite welcome, as Maria Cristina Azcona testifies.

Academy doors swing wide as Joan Wilhoit greets her mother for the annual Open House Tea on February ninth.

Parties, parties! from uniforms to formals for the boarders as the year begins with a welcome from everyone to everyone in September.

Freshmen, Judy Monahan of Vista, and Alyce Bernadicou of Fresno, promise to be quick in locating their place cards.

St. Catherine's, the circular drive, and scurrying clouds allure Kathleen Henehan and Jacqueline Combs away from their more serious studies.

New Sodalists pledge love

Each year the Sodality reception brings new girls to the feet of Our Lady to consecrate themselves as exemplary Catholics, with Mary for their advocate and Mother. With the ceremony conducted by Father Mimnagh, on the Feast of the Purification, February 2, four more high school students have been numbered as Sodalists: Carol Arend, Jacqueline Bowles, Janet Latendresse, and Monica McGowan.

Sodality Officers—Secretary Joyce Warne, Vice-Prefect Ellen J. Findley, Prefect Pat Carroll, Vice-Prefect Kathleen Henehan, and Treasurer Mary Lou McCormick—offer a bouquet of flowers as well as prayers at the statue of their patroness enshrined on the campus.

"Dominus Vobiscum," is said by Bishop Buddy (center), celebrant of the Mass of the Holy Spirit. His assistants are Father Gilfillan (left) and Father William Cooney.

God has spanned infinity. As He hung upon a cross two thousand years ago, He saw all human souls desperately dependent upon His sacrifice. And so the dying Christ promised, "I will not leave you orphans." Clothing Himself in a white host, the Man-God extended His love, His Living Presence, to men of all time, to the students at Villa Montemar in the chapel of Our Lady of Peace.

The Lord be with you

Retreat, during the first three days of Holy Week, marks the Academy as a quiet "city set upon a mountainside"—to quote the retreat master, Rev. Thomas McCarthy, who edits the Los Angeles Tidings. He identifies the Christian woman, the measure of a nation's greatness, by:

CONSIDERATNESS — Life according to Christ is giving, not getting.

SINCERITY — the child of Mary must be different in a shapeless societly.

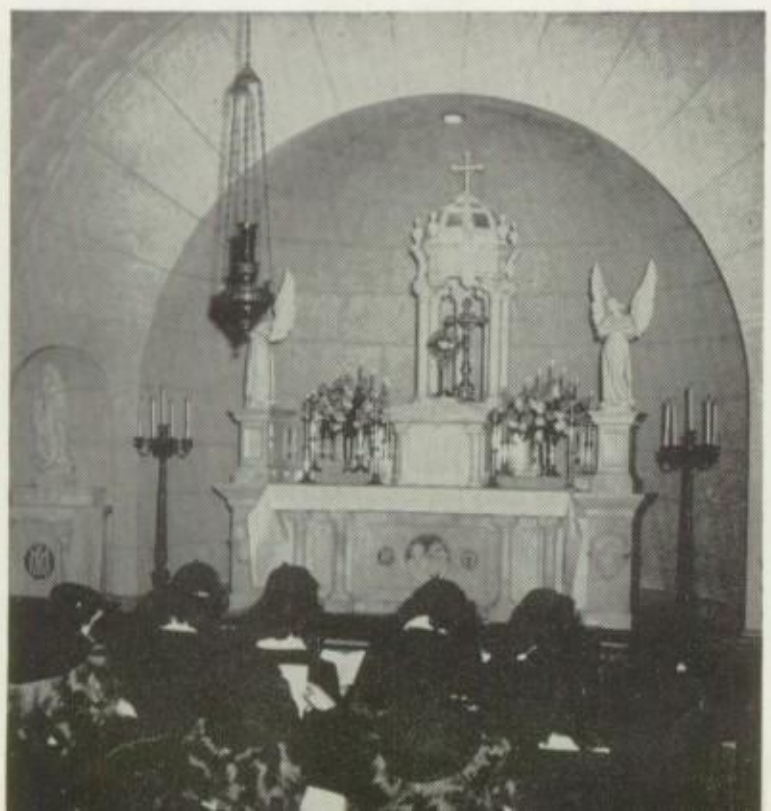
A SENSE OF PROPORTION — extravagance has no place in the budget of one who is conscious of a world in need.

The unseen photographer, Fred Pearson, relaxes Father McCarthy between retreat conferences.

Religion classes spend their forty minutes with the Greatest Teacher on First Fridays, when the Blessed Sacrament is exposed in the chapel.



The request of Our Lady at Fatima, to console her Son for the sinful world, became more personal to the girls, their parents, and their friends, when two pilgrimage statues (one, the representative; the second, the "Pilgrim-Virgin") were venerated in the school chapel. A beautiful candlelight guard of welcome preceded the enshrining, the offering of Mass at midnight, and the continuous rosaries recited during the early morning hours of vigil.

Dear Helen, remember the always, request of Our Lad of Fatima. Be faithful and [illegible] will be [illegible] Sister [illegible]

In praise of Mary

Rev. John Gallagher, O.S.A., offers the Holy Sacrifice from the North Terrace.

On Mary's Day, the thirteenth of May, the Sodality invited the students and their mothers to participate in outdoor Mass, the Living Rosary procession, the coronation of Our Lady's statue in the gardens, and the afternoon social.

Artful living

Recitals mean added hours of practice to those who are seniors.

Music attracts listeners

Royal Brown, renowned San Diego organist, wins the appreciative attention of music pupils, Rosemarie Hoyt, Alice Dessert, and Moraima Peraza, in left-to-right order, around the chapel organ. Mr. Brown has given several concerts at the Academy this year.

Altos, seconds and sopranos blend voices in "Roses of the South" for the Music Festival at Balboa Park on April 24.

Only a taper distinguishes these Christmas carollers from the darkness. After singing for the Nativity play, they join in the traditional candlelight procession to the Point. B. Arnold, A. Book Week Program Panel: Rev. John Aherne, O.S.A., Patricia Carroll, James Franklin, Carolyn Mulholland, Mary Scott, Leo Shaw, Patricia McCormick, and Norene Mayfield.

For Sunday, November 13, Rev. John Aherne, O.S.A., diocesan director of Catholic Book Week, composed and directed a program depicting the theme of love as it is written into great Catholic novels. For interpretative readings, Father selected authors who draw verbal portraits: not of sin only, but of the strength of contrition; not despair alone, but hard-won hope; not hatred, but love that is the basis of life. Regina Coeli, St. Augustine's, Cathedral, and Rosary high schools shared talents with the Academy to present passages and poems showing that: "In the wedding of Christ and human nature the Catholic writer finds the pattern and symbol for every tale of love."

Students from Saints and Our Lady of Peace posed for the display photographs.

Dearest Helen,

How bout that! That's red hot! Of course I am talking about the picture but I know you will forgive it for deep down I'm not that bad.

Gosh Helen! Isn't it the end of our Junior year and it just seems like yesterday we were Freshmen. We sure have had alot of fun together this year even tho we have had our little disagreements but as the you should know in more ways than one.

Everytime I see my brothe-in-law Joe I think of you. Why I don't know - just a strange coincidence I guess, names that is — Joe!!

I have enjoyed this year more than ever and you have helped to make it fun for me.

Love ya loads n' stuff,
